

Quadron Biodiversity Champions

Felicia Jenkins – Bristol

I am pleased to be asked to be the Biodiversity Champion for Bristol working in partnership with Bristol City Council and local groups. I am looking forward to working with the Parks Groups and the local college on biodiversity projects.

Jeff Hawkins – Hammersmith and Fulham

By creating Biodiversity Champions within all of its contracts, I believe that Quadron is clearly demonstrating a commitment within policy and through resources to actually embrace Biodiversity as an intrinsic part of its business plan. Within the Hammersmith & Fulham contract the Client regularly involves user groups and Quadron to promote meadow management and native plantings. As Biodiversity Champion for this contract I see the challenge to become even more pro-active in proposing such works and to head projects with Friends Groups and schools such as native whip planting, creating a pond or reclaiming disused land, which will benefit wildlife, the environment and the local community.

Robert Scott – Kensington and Chelsea

Being the Biodiversity Champion for Kensington and Chelsea will further my wish to incorporate the needs of diversity in flora and fauna within all working practices within Kensington and Chelsea. Coming from a background working as a Landscape Architect I wish to use this knowledge and I look forward to closely liaising with the council's ecologist Saskie in the development of the management plans to encourage biodiversity and maintenance practices which actively encourage biodiversity.

Darren Liebermann – Kingston

I honestly believe that biodiversity will inevitably become a central element in Local Authority planning. As part of Quadron's commitment to this philosophy I am enthusiastic to create partnerships with both the Client and committed local organisations. Biodiversity impacts on all of us and to ignore it is foolish. Being a Biodiversity Champion is exciting and I am looking forward to the challenge.

Meredydd Jones – Southwark

I am pleased to be nominated as the Biodiversity Champion for the Southwark contract as I believe my background in conservation and countryside management will utilise my existing skills and knowledge for the benefit of promoting and enhancing wildlife within the parks throughout Southwark, not only working with the London Borough of Southwark but many of the parks user groups and public that are involved with creation and protection of existing habitats. This is an exciting opportunity to drive forward something I am very passionate about in my working environment

Nikki Patterson – Medway

I am extremely excited to be given the opportunity to become Medway's contract Biodiversity Champion. Being the first person within this contract to be nominated for the role is an honour and pleasure. I look forward to building partnerships with local Friends Groups and the team within the Countryside Department currently working for Medway. With the help of the Medway team and the local enthusiasm of the local community and Quadron I think we can all make a great difference to the local environment.

Carl Wright – Mendip

The Environment and nature have always been important to me. Having been given the opportunity to become a Biodiversity Champion for the Mendip Contract has provided me with further opportunity to improve my local area for both wildlife and residents alike. I cannot wait to work with my manager, our Client and local groups to help make a difference and build on the good works of my fellow Quadron Biodiversity Champions in other areas of the country.
